Content Writer | Digital & Traditional

Whether it's a short story, a blog post, or a very last-minute wedding toast I didn't know I was giving, I've always had a profound love for words. Cheesy, I know. In fact, writing is probably the one job I would do for free, but I shouldn't say that out loud. I have experience developing and writing both B2C and B2B content across social media, blogs, and websites. I've worked for several companies in the SaaS space, developing marketing campaigns for LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, and email.

I enjoy taking on new challenges and pride myself on my versatility. I'm a quick learner and don't shy away from difficult subject matter or a topic that I'm unfamiliar with. How can I take something that's very niche and get consumers excited about it? That's what makes content marketing fun, at least for me. In the age of AI and ChatGPT, it has never been more important for content to stand out. I'm eager to navigate this ever-changing digital landscape.

When I'm not writing, you can probably find me...still writing? But also, maybe taking on a new art project, trying some new restaurants, kickboxing, or frolicking outside if the weather is nice. I'm really into Duolingo, so you'll definitely find me practicing Mandarin or Norwegian on any given day.

“Successful writing is one part inspiration and two parts sheer stubbornness.” – Gillian Flynn
